WAGE ORDER SENT TO UNION

"Press Just Demand," Policy Committee Tells United Steelworkers.

By The United Press

PITTSBURGH, April 24—The wage policy committee of the CIO United Steelworkers has ordered its negotiating committees to "press the just demand" for a substantial wage increase on other steel companies.

The resolution was passed Friday after CIO President Philip Murray told the committee and the steelworkers international executive board of U. S. steel's refusal to grant a wage increase.

The committee reaffirmed Murray's no-strike pledge as guaranteed under the two-year contract signed last year.

Union negotiators were instructed to seek 60 to 90 days additional time to reach a decision on a wage inchease if negotiations cannot be concluded within the time limits fixed by the contract. U. S. Steel refused the extension.

The committee also ordered union negotiators to carry on talks with respect to social insurance plans "until these negotiations have come to a successful conclusion."

Meanwhile, the electrical industry joined with U. S. Steel in a price slashing movement to beat inflation.

The rejection of wage increases by U. S. steel led to recesses in the negotiations of Westinghouse Electric Corp. and General Electric Co. with the CIO United Electrical Workers. No date was set for resumption of negotiations.

In New York, UE President Albert Fitzgerald charged Westinghouse and GE with "callous refusal to meet the cost of living needs of their employes."

Fitzgerald added, "it is no coincidence that General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, United States Steel, and Chrysler, all within two days, refused to raise wages a single penny, despite skyrocketing costs suffered by their employes."

General Electric and Westinghouse have refused to grant a wage increase on grounds that it would be inflationary.

HEARING PENDING IN COACH BEATING CASE

By The United Press

NEWARK, April 24—Donald L. Dimick, 45, a woodworker of nearby Granville, was free under $200 bond today pending a hearing on an assault and battery charge in connection with the beating of Granville high school coach Larry Petersen, 30.

Mayor Bryon Francis of Granville said the hearing will be held as soon as Petersen is well enough to appear in court.

Petersen, who suffered cuts on the head and right cheek and a badly bruised eye, was released from city hospital yesterday and returned to his Granville home.

Petersen's wife filed the assault and battery charge against Dimick. She accused him of beating her husband into unconsciusness with a piece of firewood in front of their home Thursday. The beating, she told authorities, grew out of an incident at Granville high school Wednesday when Petersen disciplined Dimick's son, Richard, 15.

Dimick said he hit the coach only with his fists. Dr. Lawrence Miller said Petersen's injuries indicated he was struck only with fists.

Start Work on Dike To Keep Flood from Waldo

Contractor Begins Moving Earth for Levee.

First earth was moved this week by the H. W. Holt and Son Construction Co. of Columbus, building the 6,500 foot wall at Waldo which army engineers designed to protect the village from rising waters in the Delaware dam flood control reservoir on the Olentangy river.

The huge earthen dike is expected to be completed by August unless bad weather interferes, Lewis R. Skelton, of Columbus, Holt company engineer in charge said today.

Skelton said that according to their contract, the dike is to be completed by Dec. 19 but given good weather and barring unforseen delays, the job should be done by the end of July.

Construction machinery moved into Waldo Monday but actual work did not begin until later in the week and to date has been for the most part preliminary work. The $105,000 contract gave the company until April 26 to begin work.

Machines In Operation

However bulldozers and drag lines went into operation Thursday and Friday south of the village, skimming off top soil to prepare a base for the tons of earth that will go into the dike.

Skelton indicated that approximately 30-35 men at most would be employed in building the dike. Most of these are permanent employes comprising equipment operators for draglines, bulldozers, rollers and other construction equipment.

Not more than a half dozen local workers are expected to be used and these mostly for tearing down fences, clearing brush and culvert work.

Remote possibility exists that some truckers may be needed if local road conditions make it impossible to use the company's heavy earth carrying equipment, Skelton said. However, present plans call for utilization of the 30-ton capacity turnapoles already moved up here from Columbus.

11 Buildings In Way

The job calls for 20,000 cubic yards of common excavation, more than 170,000 yards of embankment and approximately 185,000 cubic yards of barrow excavation. Before building up the dike through the village, 11 buildings will be moved. Work at the present time however, is confined to the area south of the village along Route 23, where the dike is to extend for approximately a half mile south of the new corporation line.

Skelton indicated that he would have no assistants in the construction engineering other than crew foremen. Progress of the dike will be checked at regular intervals by Tom Holt, 27-year-old president of the company. Holt flies back and forth between Columbus and various construction jobs the company has underway in his own Stinson five-passenger plane, Skelton said.

Marshall Back In Washington

Returns from Bogota To Deal With What He Terms "Important Events."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 2—Secretary of State Marshall returned to Washington today to deal with "important events" he said necessitated his leaving the Bogota inter-American conference.

The secretary's plane reached the airport here at 9 a. m. after an overnight flight from Bogota.

Marshall left the afternoon session of the conference yesterday after informing fellow delegates it was necessary for him to depart immediately.

The secretary's C-54 plane took off at 5 p. m. He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Marshall S. Carter, a special assistant.

Marshall had been in Bogoto since March 29, the day before the opening of the ninth international conference of 21 American states. He said he stayed longer than he had planned because "I felt due to the critical situation here it was necessary that I remain until the most fundamental issues were agreed upon."

The conference probably will continue another week. Because of the secretary's departure, the formal signing of conference agreements will be left to another member of the U. S. delegation, it was said.

(Informants in Washington said Marshall's unexpected departure apparently was prompted by an accumulation of problems demanding his attention in the U. S. capital, rather than by any particular world crisis.

(These sources said the Palestine situation might require early action by Marshall, however.)

The secretary wished the delegates of the other American republics and their people a "steady increase in their fortunes." He was roundly applauded as he said farewell in Spanish.

Conference adoption of resolutions on Communist and colonialism Thursday cleared the way for winding up the sessions.

JURY DISAGREES IN TRIAL AT BUCYRUS

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 24—The two-day trial of three Marion UAW-CIO union members on a charge arising from strike activity in Galion last fall closed late yesterday with the jury unable to reach a verdict.

Jury was given the case at 3 p. m. and more than three hours later announced that they were unable to return a verdict. The panel of 11 women and one man split evenly.

The men, Richard Gibson, 28, Walter Foust, 30, and James Wilson, 29, were being tried on the charge of driving an automobile without the owners consent, one of five separate charges on which they were indicted by Crawford county grand jury last fall.

Crawford County Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon said today he had not decided whether to ask for retrial on the same charge before another jury or seek conviction on any or all of the remaining charges. He indicated there was a good possibility that a new trial on the first charge would be sought.

Other charges still standing against the men include assault, assault and battery, grand larceny and kidnapping.

COLUMBUS, O., April 24 — Richard Allen Hansen, 14-month-old Bucyrus baby, was reported in good condition at White Cross hospital today after surgeons removed his bladder.

It was the second trip to the operating table for the youngster after he was born with his bladder outside his body. He first entered the operating room seven months ago with the odds a thousand to one against his recovery.

Surgeon Robert A. Keating reported the boy progressed normally after an initial operation bypassed the useless organ.

Few Takers for Offer of $1 Bills at 89 Cents

By The Associated Press

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., April 24 —One- dollar bills don't sell very well here—even for 89 cents.

By way of advertising for his new store, Olin Austin offered to sell each adult customer two one-dollar bills for 89c apiece.

But most people thought there was some catch to it and business has been "pretty slow," Austin reported today.

Some hard-to-please customers have even grumbled that 89 cents is more than a dollar is worth anyhow.

Sunday Time Shift Will Have Little Effect in Marion

Although some 60,000,000 of the nation's 145,000,000 people will go on daylight savings time tomorrow, the change in the clocks will have little effect on Marion or other central Ohio cities, majority of which will remain on eastern daylight time.

Columbus, central Ohio's largest city will remain on standard time, although many large cities in other sections of the state will move their clocks ahead. Ashland is the nearest city to Marion to adopt "fast time" for the summer.

Major radio networks are arranging to bring their programs at the regular hours to communities where time is unchanged.

The switching hour is 2 a. m. Sunday when conforming clocks will be set forward 60 minutes, The Associated Press reported.

Although "fast time" has won new converts this year, widespread observance will be pretty much limited to the heavily-populated northeastern section of the country. As usual, rural areas in general will shun it.

Most railroads and airlines will continue to operate on standard time.

The radio networks will move their programs ahead an hour in the east.

However, programs will be recorded and then retransmitted to stations in the middle west and west where summer time generally won't be observed. This will bring them in at their customary times.

Unlike other big eastern cities, Washington will not go on daylight saving time Sunday.

It may do so in a week or two, however. That depends on its 531-member "city council"—congress.

"NOT TELLING ALL," REUTHER QUIZ BELIEF

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 24—Police Inspector Joseph Krug said today he believed Nelson Davis, a self-styled Communist, "isn't telling all he knows" about the Walter Reuther shooting.

Davis, 52-year-old Negro, has denied a report he knows who fired a shotgun blast that seriously wounded the CIO United Auto Workers president Tuesday night.

He was arrested Thursday after officers said they received the report from a mystery witness.

"No charge has been placed against Davis, and Prosecutor James N. McNally has been ordered to give a "specific" reason why he should be detained longer at a habeas corpus hearing today.

Circuit Judge Arthur Webster refused Wednesday to grant the writ freeing Davis, whose attorney claimed he was "manifestly innocent."

While police tracked down slim clues in their manhunt for Reuther's assailant, the red-haired labor leader was heartened by news that he may yet have the use of his right arm—nearly torn off in the attack.

TAFT AGAINST AEC NOMINEE

Says He Opposed Lilienthal Before and His View Has Not Changed.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 24—Sen. Robert A. Taft was opposing nomination of David E. Lilienthal for a new five-year term as chairman of the atomic energy committee today as he and Harold E. Stassen observed a "breather" in their heated Ohio primary race for Republican presidential delegates.

Taft said last night in the radio program "meet the press," he had opposed Lilienthal before and still opposed him.

Many senators are against the idea of carrying over into a four-year presidential term the five appointments to the commission which President Truman sent to the senate early this week, said Taft.

It seems likely, he continued, the senate will insist on recess appointments to the commission.

Taft was one of the leaders in the unsuccessful fight against Lilienthal's appointment in 1946.

Stassen was slated to fire one parting shot at a Cleveland City Club forum today before leaving the state for the weekend. He will fly to Chicago for a mock convention at Northwestern university.

Taft resumes his campaign Tuesday with an address in Dayton.

Stassen, seeking 23 of 53 Ohio delegates elected at the May 4 primary, last night called for collective action by the United States and other nations acting under the United Nations charter to stop communistic infiltration and aggression.

Taft, "favorite son" candidate of the state GOP organization, declared last night that Stassen was "proclaiming in one voice support of the Taft-Hartley law," while "obviously appealing to the labor vote by criticizing specific portions" of the act.

The Ohio senator also said he would not accept the vice presidential nomination.

Stassen Disagrees

CLEVELAND, April 24—Harold E. Stassen disagreed today with his Ohio primary rival, Sen. Robert A. Tat, on confirming the new appointment of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the atomic energy commission.

"Unless there is some new evidence why Lilienthal should not be confirmed," Stassen told a news conference, "this should be done."

5 NAVY FLIERS DOWN IN RAFTS, RESCUED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 24 — Five Navy fliers rescued from the icy waters of the Atlantic last night after they were forced to abandon their medium bomber arrived here today on the U. S. liner Washington.

The plane, a twin-engined Neptune, sank about two minutes after they ditchd it. The men spent about three and a half hours in rubber life rafts about 40 miles west of Nantucket light before the Washington rescued them.

Except for being chilled from immersion in the water before they clambered onto the rafts, the men suffered no ill effects. The sea was calm and after they had lashed the two rafts together, they said they spent most of the time "joking" until rescuers arrived.

The men, based at the Quonset, R. I., Naval Air Station, were returning from a routine navigational flight to Bermuda when the plane's engines failed.

The pilot, Lt. Harvey R. Rouzer, 26, of Salisbury, N. C., gave orders to ditch the plane. The rest of the crew were Ensign Philip J. Fagan, 25, of Glen Cove, N. Y., co-pilot; Ensign Sherman F. Dudley, 25, of Madison, Wis., co-pilot and navigator; Aviation Chief Machinists Mate Thomas F. Thurston 26, of Richmond, Va., and Aviation Chief Radioman William P. Delli-Gatti, 25, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

RECOVERY MINISTER PLAN OF DE GASPERI

By The United Press

ROME, April 24—Premier Alcide De Gasperi is planning to create a special ministry to handle Italy's role in the European recovery program, political quarters said today.

These sources said Ivan Matteo Lombardo, former New York businessman who walked out of the Communist-dominated left-wing Socialist party two month ago, was considered first in line for appointment as recovery minister.

Lombardo was Italy's first special minister to Washington after the war. He has a wide acquaintance in Washington and a deep knowledge of United States business methods.

Creation of the new ministry is expected to be announced when De Gasperi completes reorganization of his cabinet in view of election results.

De Gasperi conferred with four of his ministers late yesterday in what were believed to be preliminary talks on cabinet reorganization.

GANG'S "EXECUTION" FATAL TO YOUTH, 18

By The United Press

NEW YORK, April 24—Three teenage boys were arrested on murder charges today for the "execution" on a Brooklyn street corner last night of a boy they mistakenly thought belonged to a rival neighborhood gang.

William Gottlieb, 18, was shot to death after a brief scuffle despite his denial that he belonged to a rival gang, his 15-year-old companion John Murphy told police.

Murphy said he and Gottlieb were talking on the street corner when three youths came out of a nearby bar and walked toward them.

"I knew we were in for trouble," Murphy said, "because they are three tough guys.

Murphy said the three youths accused Gottlieb of being one of the South Brooklyn Tiger gang who had invaded their Redhook territory last Thursday night. That invasion had resulted in a fist fight between gang leaders.

Murphy said Gottlieb told them he was not a member of the gang and had not been in Redhook Thursday night. Then, he told police, he was struck on the head with a gun butt.

"The next thing I remember was hearing a shot, and then Gottlieb was lying by me," he was quoted as saying.

The older boy, shot through the chest, was killed instantly.

Murphy was held by police as a material witness and was not identified until after the arrest of the other boys today.

Members of the gang booked on homicide charges were: George (Red) Boundy, 16; Anthony (Blackie) Lucira, 17, and Thomas (Frenchy) Scardaci, 17.

Two other members were held for violation of the Sullivan law. One of them Vincent Desieno, 18, had in his home the .32 caliber pistol with which Gottlieb was shot, police said. The other, who also had a gun in his possession, was Vincent Des Calo, 18.

5 Dead, 10 Hurt In Wake of Tornado

By The Associated Press

IONA, Ia., April 24—Five persons were dead and 10 others injured in the wake of a tornado which roared through the heart of this little northeast Iowa community yesterday.

The fifth victim died in a New Hampshire hospital of internal injuries suffered in the storm which earlier took the lives of his wife and grandson.

The twister, which flattened about one-fourth of Ionia (300 population), caused damage estimated by Mayor C. De Wild at between $150,000 and $200,000. Two churches, a store and more than a half dozen homes were leveled by the tornadic winds.

From here the tornado leaped 20 miles to Elma, then another 15 miles to Cresco, destroying buildings on several farms. There were no reports of casualties.

CLEVELAND, April 24—A limited distribution of the new half dollars bearing the portrait of Benjamin Franklin will be made starting April 30 to all banks and trust companies in the Fourth Federal Reserve District which request them, President Ray M. Gidney of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland announced today.

JEWS LASH AT ARAB APPROACH TO HAIFA

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, April 24—Jewish fighters lashed out today at the Arab village of Balad Esh Sheikh in their drive to seize all approaches to conquered Haifa.

The battle for the village five miles southeast of Haifa on the road to Nazareth raged most of the night. At dawn the Arabs asked Haganah, the Jewish militia, for a truce, British army authorities said.

This was agreed upon with the stipulation the Arabs hand over their arms at Haganah. Only 22 rifles were yielded by the Arabs, and the Jews refused them with an ultimatum to renew the attack unless all arms were surrendered.

The Arabs would not accept, and the Jews opened fire again. The army interceded and negotiated a cease fire order to permit British personnel to evacuate women and children from the village.

The Holy Land was most quiet otherwise on the Jewish Sabbath following last night's Seder celebration opening the week of Passover.

Meanwhile Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham, British high commissioner, said in a statement that the Arabs had provoked the Jewish attack which resulted in capture of Haifa.

5 Armed Men Rob Dwelling Occupants

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 24—Sheriff's deputies today checked a 1941 automobile for fingerprints in hope of identifying at least one of five armed men who held up an alleged "numbers house" here and robbed three men of "more than $2,000 in cash and jewelry."

The automobile, believed to have been the getaway car, was found abandoned on U. S. Rt. 23, nine miles north of the Franklin county line. Its tags had been removed.

Sheriff's deputies said four of the five heavily armed bandits entered the two-story house by a rear door and ordered two men to "get over there and yet your hands up or we'll kill you."

Two of the gunmen, one armed with a .45-caliber automatic and a .32 caliber revolver and the other with a .32-caliber automatic, herded the pair into a front room.

Another man, who entered the house while the robbery was in progress, also was ordered into a front room by the bandits.

The bandits fled after forcing the men to remove their trousers.

STRIKE SET BACK PEAK IN PRODUCTION

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—The coal strike slammed the brakes on factory production just when it was hitting an all-time high, the Federal Reserve board reported today.

Shortages caused by the strike set back the board's index two points in March from the all-time peak of 194 in February. The 1935-39 average equals 100.

Because the strike continued into this month, April production will be lower, too, the board said.

Industry sources estimate that the strike cost about 53,500,000 tons of soft coal. The miners are out more than $100,000,000 in wages, most of the 400,000 miners were away from the pits for about four weeks, and their wages average about $28,000,000 weekly.

Until dwindling coal supplies slowed output, the nation's steel mills were producing at a new record peacetime rate in March.

Automobiles were rolling off the assembly lines as fast during four weeks, and their wages average about $28,000,000 weekly.

The Federal Reserve board's monthly summary of business conditions lines up the situation like this:

Before dwindling coal supplies slowed output, the nation's steel mills were producing at a new record peacetime rate in March.

Automobiles were rolling off the assembly lines as fast during March as at any time since V-J day. By biting into coal reserves, the industry was able to keep production going despite the strike, but a slowdown is in prospect for the next few weeks.

Navy Trade School Training Available

Information just received by Chief Engineman Carl T. Prusnek, Navy recruiter, from the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington, D. C., lists 17 new service trade schools which have just been made available for the exclusive training of enlistees who have no previous military experience, especially those enlisting under the special training program for high school graduates. Only men between the ages of 17 and 31 with no prior military service in any branch of the armed forces are eligible for admission to these schools and each applicant must have a high school education.

Physical requirements have been lowered as color perception is no longer required of prospective enlistees. Minor changes in requirements as to height, vision, and dental qualifications have been ordered but the same high mental and moral standards remain in effect.

Further information may be secured between 8:30 a. m. and 4 p. m. daily from the recruiter at his booth in the sheriff's office in the courthouse.

Social Affairs

A 1 O'CLOCK luncheon was followed by a short business session and program hour when the Green Thumb unit of the Marion Garden club met yesterday at Hotel Harding. Mrs O B Morrison, president, presided for the business session when plans were discussed for taking part in the annual spring flower show to be held May 8 and 9 in the National City bank.

Mrs. Dale Miller, chairman, was in charge of the program and presented Miss Mary Kull who told of her visit to the New York flower show recently. Forty-eight states were featured with flags displayed around the balcony and displays were from private gardens, estates and florists, Miss Kull related. First honors, she stated, went to an Eleventh Century Normandy garden and the First Garden Club of America prize was awarded a typical Connecticut garden because of its simplicity. The next meeting will be a combined session of the units in the Marion Garden club at the First Evangelical and Reformed church and will be a "flower school show," May 14.

BERNARR MACFADDEN 79, WEDS WOMAN, 42

By The Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 24—Bernarr Macfadden, 79-year-old physical culturist, took his third bride yesterday—a 42-year-old grandmother. She was Mrs Jonnie Lee, blonde, vivacious New York interior decorator.

The ceremony at the palm-shaded Community church on fashionable Lincoln road was marred by an outburst by a crusader known only as "the goat woman."

The woman, who leads a goat through downtown sections while she preaches against tobacco, suddenly appeared and ran behind the altar shouting, "This is against the Holy word. It is illegal."

Three husky bellhops from the millionaire Macfadden's hotel here, doubling as ushers, quickly escorted her outside where patrolmen shooed her away.

The ceremony continued uninterrupted, but Macfadden in the excitement forgot to kiss the bride, and the Rev. John Yenches had to remind him.

At the reception, some 500 guests sipped carrot juice and munched whole wheat flour and honey cake. To non-followers of the Macfadden theory of health, champagne was served and consumed in quantity.

SLATER EXECUTED FOR LEWD OFFENSES

By DWIGHT PITKIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, O., April 24 — Kenneth Salter, whose sordid sex offenses led him to Ohio's electric chair, gave up his life with a gesture of decency last night.

He left his eyes to "some worthy person." Today they were en route to the New York City eye bank where they will—in Salter's words—"restore the priceless gift of vision to some one," preferably a war veteran.

The 31-year-old Toledo printer was put to death for the chloroform rape slaying of Barbara Dunn, 11. He admitted drugging the child so he could rape her, but denied any intent to kill.

At the time of the slaying in June, 1946, he was a parolee from Mansfield reformatory where he had served time for a sex offense.

The spare, little, dark-haired man embraced death with a smile on his face and a prayer on his lips. Before the electric current surged through his body at 8:03 p. m. he recited the Lord's prayer and the Ave Maria. Humbly, he repeated the verses as the Catholic chaplain, Fr. C. V. Lucier, stood in front of the Ohio penitentiary chair and heard his confession of faith.

The prison physician, Dr. John B. C. Eckstorm, pronounced Salter dead at 8:09 p. m. The body then was taken to an operating room for removal of the eyes.

Salter was the 257th victim of the 51-year-old electric chair Acting Warden Ralph W. Alvis said.

The body was turned over to the Catholic church for burial here. The condemned man had spent most of his final day at prayer in the Catholic chapel at the prison. He ate a hearty last meal of fried rabbit.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

MRS. TICER and Katie reacted to my startling announcement exactly as I had expected. My calm, disciplined farm neighbor "took it in stride," simply smiling at me. But Katie gave voice to an exultant shout, almost like a yodel, and threw her arms upward, as if clutching the sky would be the only possible relief to her feelings.

"A vedding! Out here!" she exclaimed in a singing voice. "Who goin' be the bride und groom? No, let me guess! I do me some detecstuff work inside my brain."

I smiled at her enthusiasm, but my voice was firm.

"I'll give you exactly one minute for your guessing," I told her. "I am in a great hurry as you know, and I have much to tell you. Sit down both of you."

Mrs. Ticer sat down sedately. Katie literally threw herself into the nearest chair, and put her hands over her face with a theatrical gesture. I gave Mrs. Ticer a grin, and spoke in muted voice.

"Where are Jim, your husband and your son?"

"Sam and Jerry are over at the farm," she replied. "Jim is in the basement, looking after the furnace."

"Will you please call Jim in here?" I asked. "I shall have to give him some directions, too. Katie, you may have a few seconds longer for your guessing, until Mrs. Ticer brings Jim in here."

"Me, I need no time more," she said, uncovering her eyes. "Me, I haf dose names all deedooced already. Dey are—"

"Don't speak the names until Mrs. Ticer and Jim get here," I said sharply, and a sulky look which I recognized, crept into her eyes.

"Vy do I haf to vait to tell you tings till dot Meesis Ticer und dot Jeem coom back here?" she asked, then quailed at the look I gave her.

"Have you forgotten so soon what you promised me upstairs in your rooms before dinner?" I asked her in as stern a voice as I could manage, for as always my risibles play tricks on me where Katie is concerned.

"Oh, oh! Me, I sure forgot," she wailed. "Plees, my deer lofly Meesis Graham, plees forgif your poor Katie. I no forget vunce more."

"See that you don't" I told her sternly, and then Mrs. Ticer came back into the room, followed by Jim, and I motioned them to seats. I was sure that Mrs. Ticer had given no hint to Jim of my reason for wanting him, so I spoke directly to him.

"I have news for you, Jim," I said. "We are going to have a wedding here at the farmhouse, and it will entail extra work. I want to leave directions for it before I go."

"I guess we don't have to tell you that extra work don't mean nothing to us, if you want it, Mis' Graham," Jim said, and then was suddenly silent as if his little oratorical effort had exhausted him.

"Indeed, I do know that, Jim, and am grateful to all of you," I said. "Now, first of all you must know the names of the bride and groom. Katie asked to guess them, but she says she knows them now."

"She would" Jim said heavily, and I knew, that while he had yielded to my plea not to leave the farm with Katie, because of her atrocious temper tantrum over Mrs. Ticer upon my arrival, he still felt annoyance, if not rancor against her. I knew, also, that Katie was not tempting his wrath by one of her usual tempery rejoinders, and I hastily spoke to my temperamental housekeeper.

"Have you deduced the names of the happy pair?" I asked her with an indulgent smile.

"Sure ting!" she said, with a ludicrous air of superior knowledge. "Eeet can be only two peoples, dot Keeng Georges you shoost brought down here, und dot princess Olina. But, Me, I tink, he like eet better eef Mees Mary keeck her man oudt vindow und trot up aisle mit heem."

Taft Has Earned Ohio's Support

THE decision that Ohio Republicans must make between Senator Taft and Harold E. Stassen is exactly what it was when Mr. Stassen decided to come into the state's presidential primary last Jan. 25. They must decide whether Senator Taft's record in public life has earned their support for his presidential candidacy in the Republican nominating convention in June.

Senator Taft has given Ohio the ablest representation it has had in the U.S. senate for many years. His skill in analysis and his unquestionable integrity have made him the strongest natural leader in the upper house of congress.

He has gone far toward re-establishing public confidence in politics by repeatedly saying and doing what he thought was right, regardless of the consequences. He has thought of himself as responsible to his own conscience. He has not tried to make a popularity contest of his senatorship.

It is ironic that this should be his heaviest handicap as a vote-getter—the fact he has done what most people wish more men in public life had the courage to do. By choosing to behave like a statesman instead of a second-rate politician, Senator Taft has alienated some groups that apparently prefer second-rate politicians.

No one, not even his severest critic, ever has accused Senator Taft of double-talking, back-scratching, fence-building, or log-rolling. That is why he clearly has earned the support of Ohio Republicans in his bid for the party's presidential nomination. It is the reason why Republicans in this state should send him to the nominating convention with their full endorsement.

If a man of his unequaled integrity cannot win a full endorsement from the people who know him best, politics has fallen victim to the clamorous minorities that would like to make all political contests an untidy scramble for the favor of pressure blocs.

Those who oppose Senator Taft merely because he has failed to satisfy one or more of their narrow demands have nothing to contribute to the strengthening of the American system of government. The system's success depends on the ability of a few natural leaders to place the welfare of all the people ahead of the demands of pressure blocs.

Mr. Stassen has gained momentum since he announced last January that he would enter the Ohio primary. He is a strong contender for the Republican presidential nomination. But it is taking nothing away from him to say that Ohio Republicans owe their full support in the primary to an eminently qualified Ohioan—Robert A. Taft.

A Psychological Moment

SCARCELY anyone could be so naive as to believe price-cutting can be made fashionable by the example of a few large manufacturers. The reductions announced by General Electric, U. S. Steel and Westinghouse will last no longer than the reductions announced some months ago by the Ford Co., if costs of production continue to rise as the result of further boosts in wage rates and benefits that cannot be justified by similar boosts in output. Westinghouse, incidentally, says its reductions have been made possible by increased efficiency and improvements in manufacturing methods.

The effect of the price-cutting example will be determined by the policies of the powerful labor unions which now set the economic pace for the United States. They can wipe out all potential benefits price stabilization by insisting on still more arbitrary boosts in their dollar rate of pay at the expense of public purchasing power. It is as momentous a decision as union leadership has had to make since the end of the war.

Fortunately, union leadership has the means of informing itself fully about all present economic circumstances. Its advisers know as well as management knows that public purchasing power is declining. This is a proper psychological moment to check the decline—to do something to stop the "bust" trend in the "boom-and-bust" cycle. The right decision can stabilize the economy. The wrong one can put it on the skids—the eventuality the Kremlin has predicted would be the ultimate consequence of the war boom in the United States.

Dual Democratic Personality

GAEL SULLIVAN, the Democratic national committee's executive director gave a curious answer when asked if he preferred Supreme Court Justice Douglas rather than President Truman as his party's nominee.

He began his answer by saying, "Gael Sullivan is two men. One is a private individual with his private opinions. The other is an employe of the Demcratic national committee, who is a spokesman for the views of the national committee." This he followed with praise of Justice Douglas, but added that he hadn't spoken for his candidacy since joining the Democratic national committee.

The statement certainly cannot be called an endorsement of President Truman, yet it comes from one of the men who would be expected to express outspoken support of his candidacy. If this is a measure of the enthusiasm within the inner circle of the Democratic party, it doesn't augur well for the vigor with which the Truman candidacy will be pushed.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Out of the House of Bondage.

THROUGHOUT the world this week, those who live according to Jewish tradition will celebrate the Passover, one phase of which is the commemoration of the redemption of a people from slavery. At the Seder feast, where the family is gathered, it is repeated year after year: "Because we were slaves unto Pharoah in Egypt and the Lord our God brought us forth from thence with a strong hand and an outstretched arm . . ." and then the tale of slavery and redemption is told again and again.

To many, slavery seems remote and possibly exaggerated. Yet slavery was for many centuries, and even among the most civilized peoples, a normal state of society. Among theocratic peoples, slavery was less usual, but in communities where the military gained ascendancy and which were therefore organized for war, present or potential, slavery came to have a usual and appropriate place. Before its institution, prisoners of war or entire races were massacred; however, when slavery came into being, such prisoners were no longer killed off; they were put to work or were sold as household servants.

SOKOLSKY

The golden ages of Greece and Rome were products of slave states; the Ottoman empire thrived on a slave base. As Arnold J. Toynbee puts it: ". . . The Ottoman padishahs maintained their empire by training slaves as human auxiliaries to assist them in keeping order among their 'human cattle.' This remarkable institution of making soldiers and administrators out of slaves—an idea which is so congenial to the nomad genius and so alien from ours—was not an Ottoman invention. We find it in other Nomad empires over sedentary peoples — and this precisely in those which have had the longest duration next to the Ottoman empire itself."

Repugnant To All

Whether we refer to slavery or serfdom, it began to disappear during the middle of the nineteenth century and has since been viewed with abhorrence by all peoples who lives in what we generally refer to as the civilized world.

Yet the institution of slavery has been restored as a result of the last war. Now many millions of human beings are now slaves, laboring without human rights in mine and mill and factory beyond the Urals, no one knows accurately. I have seen estimates ranging from 20,000,000 to 30,000,000.

These are not only prisoners of war but also prisoners of peace. Among them are displaced peoples like the Sudeten Germans who were uprooted from homes where their ancestors had dwelt for nearly a thousand years; among them are intellectual leaders from Poland, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia; among them are personalities who, having opposed Hitler, branded themselves as Democrats and therefore were offensive to totalitarian Communists; among them are brilliant German scientists whose value is their great knowledge. These are slaves.

Result of State Control

This revival of slavery is the total rejection of human progress. It is an inevitable result of the Stalinist theory that the state can do no wrong; that whatever the state does is right if those who control the state find it necessary. It is a violent attack upon the American conception of the inalienable rights of the individual person, rights beyond the power of the state to grant or to cancel because they exist not by order of terrestrial authority but by the grace of God.

Aristotle speaks of "natural-born slaves," and in his "Politics" he seeks to lay down a moral basis for this institution. He is capable of placing human slaves and domestic animals in the same category. It surely has been assumed during the twentieth century that we have moved far away from that concept of any human being, anywhere on the face of the earth. But here we are in the middle years of what started out to be a glorious age not only for the western peoples but for the entire human race—and we witness a restoration of the institution of slavery. We have marched back as far as we had marched forward.

This is the central crime of World War II and the sorrow of it is that such a body as the United Nations does not even protest this infamy. We have become too stonily brutalized even to note that slavery has been restored.

Definitions on Liberalism

By RAYMOND MOLEY

LAST Sunday, the New York Times published six definitions of liberalism, by Messrs. Truman, Wallace, Taft, Dewey, Stassen and Warren rsepectively. Usually, such statements, when assembled, are a jumble of meaningless words. Often the philosophies of those who participate are indistinguishable.

In this case, something comes through with great clarity, and that something might well be a hint of the real meaning of the choice before the country this year. The statements also show the extent to which the term "liberal" has been torn from its original context and has been used to define a program of state action and state authority.

MOLEY

The underlying philosophies of Warren, Stassen, Dewey and Taft are substantially the same. It is interesting that in each case, the word "individual" is the center of the definition.

Taft, among other things, says: "Every true liberal must . . . determine for himself . . . which so-called liberal program is leading in the direction of thought and freedom of the individual."

Warren says: "Liberalism . . . is the political belief . . . that the individual should be the all-important precious object of consideration."

Stassen says liberalism is "the maximum of individual freedom for each man and woman consistent with the enjoying of the same degree of freedom by his or her fellow-men."

Dewey says liberalism "places first the dignity of the individual." The similarity of thought is obvious.

President Truman's definition does not contain the word "individual." His is a program of what "we" must do, presumably for "us." He follows the familiar New Deal line of starting with what some unnamed "we," obviously meaning a government manned by people like himself, should do for people in the mass.

In Wallace's definition, this idea is projected still further. Wallace, like Truman, does not use the word "individual." "Liberalism," he says, "is the credo of those who have no fear of the idea of change." Thus, something must be done by somebody for many somebodies. Who will do it? "The majority." That is, people in the mass. Who directs this mass? Again, the magic word "we," presumably the self-constituted elite which includes Wallace. At the end of the Wallace definition he frankly and consciously throws out the traditional meaning of liberalism: "One of the tenets of traditional liberalism was opposition to government planning. But the pendulum has swung since the Victorian period . . ." Thus he discards the meaning of the term and keeps the label to define something else.

Their Views Change

At this point it may be useful to recall the meaning originally given to the term—a meaning which gave the word "liberalism" such acceptance and popularity that it is now filched by Messrs. Truman and Wallace to cover the very thing it originally denied.

Liberalism, according to Guido deRuggiero in the Encyclopedia of Social Science, is based upon a belief in "a free individual conscious of his capacity for unfettered development and self-expression." This concept can be clearly traced back through Jefferson and Madison to the very beginnings of English liberty. It is this, and not what he sneeringly calls "Victorianism," that Wallace wants to lay aside. It is reassuring that the four leaders named above are of the honored tradition.

Another Burning Issue

A recent survey reveals the White House is a fire trap.

A spark, it is warned, could set it off. But the Republicans aren't worried: Truman hasn't got one.

Still, they add, it is characteristic of Harry that he has been building a balcony rather than a fire escape.

The recommended fire-proofing of the White House would cost in excess of a million dollars. Wouldn't it be more economical for the two parties to get together and agree to nominate only candidates who don't smoke?

Incidentally, it's probably just as well the Republicans didn't know the presidential residence was a fire-trap during those desperate years when it appeared the only way they'd ever be able to get Roosevelt out of the White House would be to burn it down.

But then, Washington should be an ideal place to form a bucket brigade, as many politicians as there are there with practice carrying water on both shoulders

Election Lulus

That 92 per cent victory for the Communist bloc in the Romanian election was a lulu, and we hereby install it in the Hall of Election Lulus. It will accompany the 40,609,247, "Ja" vote, 93.5 per cent of the total, which Hitler got in 1933. It will form an interesting companion piece to the vote of 18,919 to 18 which the Pendergast candidate for the Missouri Supreme Court got in Kansas City's First Ward, in the 1936 primary, and the even more notable vote of 19,201 to 13 which he received in the Second Ward. It will harmonize nicely with tallies of 52 to 0, and 121 to 1, which Mr. Bombie Spicuzza has rung up in precincts of his Fifth Ward in St. Louis. Towering above them all will be only one superlulu, a vote of 483,291 to 0, which was obtained under Russian auspices three years ago in Outer Mongolia.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

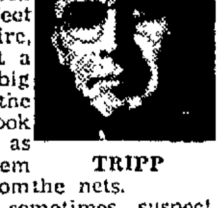
Fish Eggs and Hens'

By Frank Tripp

THERE are a lot of reasons for the expression "poor fish" so often aptly applied to suckers of the human race. This yarn has to do with one of the good reasons.

Out in front of our house, in proper season, men of the conservation department come in a boat and put out long nets to capture the big Seneca Lake trout and "strip" them. They're getting eggs for hatcheries.

Experts who angle long hours with Seth Green rigs and 300 feet of copper wire, to garner just a few of the big fellows from the deep water, look on with envy as scores of them are taken from the nets.



TRIPP

While we sometimes suspect that these favored souls may have trout to eat when we have none, still no doubt they throw them all back. It's sometimes done at night from bobbing boats, but from the shore we can watch the operation under their powerful lights, or loll along in a speedboat.

The fish will often be two feet long, sometimes longer. Their roe is extracted by a numbing but not fatal stripping process known to men who understand fish better than do folks who eat them. Once cheated of their forthcoming brood the mother fish go back to Seneca's depths to breed more eggs.

I never asked how many of these premature deliveries a fish can stand or if there's evidence that the same fish has been victim more than once. That doesn't matter for there are lots of fish, though hard to catch.

Lake Is Deep

Seneca is very deep and clear and cold. Its average depth for a 36 mile stretch is 500 feet; gets down to 634 which is nearly 200 feet below sea level. It freezes seldom, never deep, while its sister Finger Lakes freeze deep every winter. It is not a land-locked lake. From it boats may sail around the world—and fish may come and go as do the boats.

It often wields a pinky" of the salmon breed which came from afar and have been known to migrate 1,300 miles. At Seneca's southern end the rainbow trout go to spawn each spring up Catherine Creek where record catches are brought forth. There anglers from far and near gather and at season's opening stand almost shoulder to shoulder in the stream and along its banks.

But don't go there with hook, line and confidence that you can fill your stomach and deep freeze. You must take an expert angler's craft along if you would bring home big ones and have your name engraved on Izaak Walton books.

Astounding Figures

The wonder that there aren't more fish comes with knowledge of their roe. The total number of eggs in the roe taken from a single fish is from 23,000 to 33,000. If all of these hatched and grew, enough generations of them would overflow the streams and lakes. Only one egg of 5,000 becomes a full grown fish.

The average restaurant serving of shad roe will run about 10,000 to 15,000 eggs. So you only devour two or three potential legal sized fish when you eat a meal of roe. If you didn't eat the other thousands, bigger fish would.

Speaking of eggs have you heard of the scientific plans to have hens lay eggs that will keep longer? I don't pretend to know how they hope to reason this out with hens and induce them to cooperate. Hens are pesky things. So far as I know it has never yet been learned why a chicken crosses the road. I only know that it's a lucky hen that makes it nowadays.

It seems that an egg, left in a nest or exposed otherwise to one warm day will deteriorate the equivalent of a month's repose under refrigeration. The Chinese must have had the answer for they kept eggs for centuries. I never ate one knowingly but have thus suspected some I've had.

Up our way we're delighted with the likes of city folks who want their hens eggs white and uniform in size. We take and love the brown ones and the bigger they come, the better. Those of double yolk are highly prized. Often one of them will be twice the average size and give ample breakfast to a hungry man.

But hennery whites, which we call lily-livered eggs, are what the cities want. That's swell with us. The reason is, I hear, that cooks who work by printed rule must have an egg of size that measures up to what an egg would be in flossy books of recipes. Why they must be white I don't know.

Our women folks can judge an egg when broken in a cup. They know that often one big egg will equal two the rule prescribes.

Anyway we don't live much by blueprint up our way.

Animals lack the authority and know to insert transparent sections in the bodi Homo Sapiens, the Mr. Know-It-All of the cies. But there are some things about th ternal workings of Homo Sapiens that bear investigation.

Homo Sapiens eats from 3 to 5 times as as he needs, gets breathless afterward, plains of disagreeable sensations in his d tive tract and pays a doctor to tell him eating too much so he can disregard the do advice and eat as much as he wants. causes that?

Homo Sapiens, imprisoned by his own i ance for thousands of years, finds himself reasonably ready and easy access to al information he needs to win his intelle freedom but huddles instead in the dark of his superstitions and prejudices, chatt with fear and hate. What's the reason that?

Homo Sapiens, driven by his overwhel instinct to evade hard work, invents a z gadgets to do hard work for him, then up weight-lifting, tennis, hiking, grinds his coffee or insists on riding a hobby to p that he is half the man he wishes he Does that make sense?

Homo Sapiens insists he has an edge ove other animals because he can use his no and they can't—then misuses his noodle to trive weird inconsistencies that make all other animals shake their poor dumb head amazement that anyone so smart could b stupid. What cog slipped in that pro Doctor?

Homo Sapiens turns pale with pity bec the beasts he studies kill for food and protection and wonders why—but never bot to peer through his own transparencies to der why he kills for the pure joy of killing why only his own kind has figured out and means of killing with fragmentation bo atomic fission, systematic starvation and called concentration camps. Was this sp men thwarted in childhood, Doc?

Homo Sapiens has a queasy conscience a vivisection—and well he may, because if higher apes ever get the authority and they'll be wanting to find out what m Homo Sapiens act that way. Just put window, Gargantua, and take a look. But b yourself. It will be a shock.

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

Inexpensive Window Boxes Are Decorative

One of the most decorative features of a small house will be found in the properly-dimensioned window-box, and there is probably nothing that can be more easily made by the homeowner. By actual test it has been proved that a window-box can be cut and assembled in about one-half an hour.

The first step is to measure the width of the window, and then cut three pieces of six or eight-inch finishing strips to that dimension. These are then nailed together so as to form an open-end trough. Next you cut two small pieces to set into the open ends, and these are nailed in place as shown. The ends will come above the sides as much as the thickness of the stock being used, and should be cut across to match the top of the sides.

If you want a very finished job, the top of the box may be trimmed with a molding as shown in the illustration.

Fastening the window box may be done in several different ways. If it is to be a permanent fixture, the best method is to drive two screws through the bottom near the inside edge and into the window-sill. Another method is to install two brackets on the wall of the house below the window-sill and to set the box upon them. Still another method is to fasten a shelf direct to the sill so that the box can be laid upon it. Any of these methods are satisfactory.

One of the main things to avoid is filling the box before it is set in place. Once it is filled it is very weighty and awkward to handle, to say nothing about fastening it. People often make the mistake of taking the box to the florist to be filled, and then trying to place it properly. The right thing to do is to fasten the box securely in place and then have it filled.

Painting the window-box is a very important matter. Most home-owners go in for contrasting colors; in other words they paint the box green, and set it in a white-walled house. The window-box should match the color of the wall, and the flowers or vines with which it is filled should present the interest and the contrast.

CITES CRESTLINE NEEDS

CRESTLINE, April 24—Dr. E. G. Hesser read his brochure on Crestline benefits and needs before the Chamber of Commerce this week in the Youth Center. It was adopted by the chamber and ordered publicized. A. A. Remy, head of the public schools here, spoke of the need of the proposed two-mill levy for the schools, and the city solicitor cited the need of a three-mill levy for operating expenses of the city. Both levies were favorably received.

Taking Off Wall Linoleum

Q. Please advise how to remove linoleum from a small part of our kitchen wall. We have linoleum counter tops extending on the wall to meet the wall cabinets. We now wish to change the counter tops, but are wondering if the plaster would be pulled away from the wall. We would like to have the wall painted, and have counter tops only on the sink.

A. The plaster would be damaged and that part of the wall would have to be patched. You may be able to start loosening the linoleum by gentle pulling at the top and tearing off all that will come. The cement holding the remaining piece can be softened with plenty of hot water, which will work underneath. If the linoleum was applied with a waterproof type of linoleum cement, try softening it with denatured alcohol or a strong, hot solution of washing soda. This should be rinsed off after removing the linoleum. After this working over, the damaged wall may be repaired with patching plaster, applied according to directions. For best results, have a competent workman do the whole job.

Dividing Large Window

Q. I have a very large window, the pane of which when broken is quite expensive to replace. Being handy with tools I am wondering if it would be practical to put in a vertical strip to divide the sash, thus using two panes half the present size. Would I have to get this strip at the mill? Or could I cut it out myself? How could I fasten it to the sash?

A. It would be best to take the sash to a millwork shop and have the muntin bar inserted there. The sash will have to be grooved to hold the bar in place. If there is no mill in your locality, a competent carpenter should be able to do this for you.

A NEW ALUMINUM STORM and SCREEN DOOR by EAGLE-PICHER

BEAUTIFUL • PRACTICAL

Now you can have year 'round door protection . . . in winter this modern aluminum combination storm and screen door helps eliminate drafts and reduces fuel bills, and in summer, the 16-mesh screen helps keep out pesty insects.

This new aluminum storm and screen door has the same modern, practical styling, the same distinctive beauty as the now-famous Eagle-Picher Combination Storm Window.

Made of strong, durable aluminum, it does not rust or warp. Unusually light in weight, the glass and screen insert panels are easily and quickly removed from the door frame for seasonal changing. Special door-check prevents slamming.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By The Associated Press

A small house plan that can be adjusted to your budget—this dwelling can be built without breezeway and garage and without the wing on the front bedroom. Costs can be the deciding factor. Those features can be added later, as well as additional bedrooms upstairs. This is Plan 702-B by E. L. Baker, 1525 West High street, Lima, O. The house as shown covers 987 square feet without garage. The kitchen bay is an attractive feature.

COLORED FIXTURES USED IN BATHROOM

The modern bathroom is a handsome essential in today's home, and now that restrictions and war priorities are a thing of the past, the bathroom in harmonious coloring and design is again in the spotlight, says Practical Builder, Chicago, 5, Ill.

Bathroom fixtures are being manufactured in soft subtle colors such as ivory, turquoise, peachblow, lavender, coral, autumn brown. Basically good colors, agreeable under artificial as well as natural light, must be selected both for the fixtures and the background—colors that are easy to live with.

To achieve the most satisfying color interest between bathroom and bedroom, serious thought must be given to this problem when the new house or apartment or remodeling job is still in blueprint form.

One attractive bathroom we have seen had fixtures in the shade called peachblow, which is really a light pink, and contrasting was flooring of a deep blue. This blue combined with light grey was continued around the room as a wainscot. Above the wainscot, wallpapered walls were repeated in the peachblow of the fixtures.

Another bathroom with light blue fixtures was carried out in red, white and blue; the flooring being a deep burgundy and the walls of white tile. Fixtures in any one of these colors will give you a bathroom in which you may take pardonable pride—a delight to you and the envy of your friends.

HARD WOOD FLOORS CUT DENT DANGERS

A prime requisite of good flooring is its capacity to resist indentations by casters and legs of furniture. This is one of the features which homemakers find so satisfactory in floors of oak or other hardwoods. Absence of this quality limits the serviceability of a floor to a great extent.

Heavy chairs, sofas, pianos and so on may remain in one spot almost indefinitely without denting oak floors noticeably. It is unnecessary, therefore, to take the precaution of rearranging furniture periodically simply to avert such damage.

Ordinarily even a falling object will not dent an oak floor. An unusually heavy blow may cause a slight impression, but this will disappear in a short time. Oak, despite its hardness, fossesses a resiliency which enables it to return to its former shape if the impression is not deep.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

How Science Helps Prevent Contagious Disease

Every mother owes a debt of gratitude to medical science for the way in which it has made possible the protection of children against disease. The list of illnesses, formerly taken for granted, which parents today can spare their children—and for so little in the way of trouble and expense—is impressive.

At present it is possible to immunize children against diphtheria, whooping cough, typhoid fever, and smallpox, as well as tetanus or lockjaw. Active immunization means that antibodies are formed in the child's body and remain in large enough amounts to ward off the infection.

It is also possible to protect children against measles, whooping cough, and a liver disorder known as infectious hepatitis, for a short period of time. This type of protection is called passive protection. Here the antibodies are not developed in the child's own body, but are present in the injected serum. This type of immunity protects the child for only two or three weeks.

Whooping cough is most serious during the first year of life and particularly during the first six months. There has been some question as to how early in life the whooping cough vaccine may be effectively injected.

Dr. Ernest H. Watson, of Ann Arbor, Mich., thinks it is possible to confer immunity in children even when the vaccine is given as early as the first month, although how long protection lasts, is not definitely known when given this early. Some investigators believe that the injections should not be given until between the third and sixth months of life. Further study of this question is being carried out.

Should a baby contract whooping cough during the early months what is known as hyper-immune serum may be employed for treatment with excellent results. This is blood serum of human origin, taken from persons who have had whooping cough or who have been immunized against whooping cough by injections of the vaccine. Hyper-immune serum may also be manufactured by using blood from a rabbit, which has been injected with the vaccine. This has the same effect on rabbits as on humans, in both cases causing the serum to become rich in disease fighting antibodies.

There is also available at present, a combination of vaccines against diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus. Dr. Watson suggests starting this combined vaccine at three months of age, giving one injection a month for three months. Then, at six months, the baby is vaccinated against smallpox. At 12 to 18 months, he is given a "booster" injection of the combined vaccine, with further "booster" doses every two years until he goes to school. At this time, the youngster is again vaccinated against smallpox.

In many parts of the country, measles is quite prevalent at this time. Unfortunately, as yet there is no method of giving life-long protection against this disease with a vaccine. However, in all children under two or three years of age, and in all weak or sickly youngsters who are exposed to measles, an injection of what is known as gamma globulin, which is part of the protein from the blood, should be given. This will give protection against the disease for a varying period of time. If the gamma globulin is given four to six days after exposure, even though measles develops, it is usually quite mild, and this mild form gives permanent protection against further attacks.

All mothers should bear in mind these various facts concerning the protection of the child against the common catching diseases.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 24—Profit-taking sales slammed the brake pedal on the stock market's spring rally today.

Traders whose holdings benefitted from recent advances were withdrawing their funds for reinvestment. Some of the oil and farm implement shares were special targets to this selling

On the other hand selected rails, which led Friday's late advance, succeeded in making further progress as coal mining resumption brightened traffic prospects.

Several blocks of 1,000 or more shares changed hands in an active opening but the pace slowed somewhat later in the short session.

Sliding to lower levels were J. I Case, International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, Gulf Oil, Standard Oil (NJ), Dow Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, American Can and Anaconda Copper Still on the upgrade were Atlantic Coast Line, General Motors, Goodrich Woolworth, Southern Railway, Penney and Air Reduction.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

NG housecleaning used to ove only a determined unwilling husband—and guments.

y or two the place look- had been hit by an un- oon The lady of the arranged the furniture, n old cloth around her e began madly flailing the rs and ceilings with om and dust cloth.

ll the dirt had been the glaze died down in the lady's eye, and she limped to her couch for a long afternoon nap — victory at rest.

Hal Boyle

The husband's role in the entire procedure consisted largely of self-pitying grunts as he shoved the furniture back into position over the worn places in the rug But all it cost him was a few sore muscles. His pocketbook wasn't bruised much.

Today "housecleaning" is as complex as a military amphibious landing—and about as expensive You don't need the advice of a decorator so much as you do the help of a banker.

At least that is the situation in my cliff-dweller's cave at the moment Frances began by describing it as "a housecleaning" For two weeks I came home each night to find battalions of strange people swabbing the joint, slapping paint at the walls and waving samples of vari-colored bunting that would blanch a chameleon

"I GUESS THIS YEAR we are really refurnishing as much as we are plain housecleaning." Frances finally said. "After seven years I think we can stand a change"

I looked at the price of a drapery sample she held in her hand. My hair rose in horror.

"Per acre" I asked.

"Per yard"

A man came to rebuild two easy chairs and a love seat He charged more than the fellow who sold them to us. Another man came and rolled up the rug.

"I'll beat it myself and save money," I offered.

"He didn't come to beat it," said my hausfrau "He's taking it away I paid $35 for that rug secondhand eight years ago It's so worn you can see the color of the floor through it We're getting a new rug"

"Well, try to keep it under $75," I said

"LISTEN, MIDAS," said Frances. "Today $75 won't buy a prayer mat for a one-legged Moslem"

A man with a bucket came in and painted the front and back walls a lovely blue-bottle-fly-green. Then he departed leaving untouched the gray side walls—the pleasant, cheerful gray a man's face gets after staying out all night.

"He's coming back tomorrow to finish up"

"No, we're trying something new for us—a two-color living room," said Frances, and added as I started to yelp.

"You don't have to live all your life in a room with one color"

"But my friends will just think I was too cheap to have the rest of it painted"

"Well"——" she began ominously I decided not to press the point

When I saw the final figure for overhauling the house, I went to see an older man whose wife had been seized by the same refurnishing phobia. He was in black despair.

"TWENTY-FIVE years ago," he recalled hollowly, "I rented a six-room cottage on a good plot of ground The rent was $35 a month I furnished the six rooms and filled the coal bin for $2,500

"I am now furnishing an alleged three-room apartment It costs $103 a month and I don't know where the third room is All I can find is a bedroom and a living room.

"To date the living room alone has cost me $3,287.96 to furnish And my wife says she isn't through yet

"And you come to me expecting sympathy!"

"It isn't the house that takes the cleaning any more. It's the husband.

ORGANIZED RESERVE ACTIVE IN MARION

Three of 350 Units in County Operating Here.

Marion plays a major part in Organized Reserve affairs, the records in the office of Captain John B. Weaver, Reserve Unit instructor, show.

Of the 350 affiliated units that have been activated in the country three are in Marion, the records show. They are the 497th Engineer Heavy Shop company sponsored by the Marion Power Shovel Co., 298th Engineer Depot company sponsored by the Universal Cooler Co, and an Engineer Maintenance company now under organization under the sponsorship of the Huber Manufacturing Co. The utmost cooperation has been given by these organizations and for a community this size, Marion is contributing in a large measure to the defense of the nation, Captain Weaver said.

The Organized Reserve Corps is one of three components of the Army, the other two being the Regular Army and the National Guard. No estimate is placed on the number of individuals in the program, the Army states The size of units run from five or six men to 1,000 men per unit. The job of these units in time of war is to support the combat arms of the ground and air forces In World War II some signal battalions were sponsored by telephone companies, more than 70 general hospitals by hospitals and schools, truck and transportation units by the American Trucking association and railway operation and shop battalions by railroads.

In explaining the procedure for organizing the units, Captain Weaver cites the forming of the unit at the Marion Power Shovel Co., where the Army contacted the plant, the plan was approved and an agreement was signed With the cooperation of plant officials a commanding officer was chosen and the latter appointed a full cadre of officers The next step was to fill the table of organization of enlisted personnel. The units meet and train in the same kind of work they do in civilian employment

Captain Weaver points out that if all communities the size of Marion would go all out in the same supporting capacity, mobilization would be simple In addition to the three units sponsored by the industries there is organized here a field artillery battery, hospital ship platoon and an Army Postal unit Captain Weaver states.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

PAUL G HOFFMAN is a middle-aged, middle-sized, pleasant-looking man who goes in for double-breasted suits.

He also looks like a man who can keep his temper pretty well and he'll probably have to before he's through with Washington.

He's now the head of ECA—the Economic Cooperation Administration— which will handle the Marshall plan help for Europe.

James Marlow

Hoffman called a news confence yesterday and about 30 newsmen radio commentators and magazine writers showed up.

The meeting seemed pretty typical of ECA at this point Brand new and trying to get started.

Hoffman came into the room with only two aids, D. A. Fitzgerald and Richard Bissell

Hoffman recently appointed Fitzgerald a food expert, to direct the food part of the Marshall program Bissell is a special consultant to Hoffman

They're about his only two top assistants, except for W. Averell Harriman, who has been named "roving ambassador" for the program in Europe Harriman has been secretary of commerce.

Except for a few chairs and radio gear to broadcast the news conference, the room was bare.

IT'S JUST ANOTHER room on one of the five floors ECA has taken over in a new building here The building itself is so new workmen still are busy on it.

The ECA program is so vast—it calls for spending $5,300,000,000 in Europe in one year on food, loans and goods—that Hoffman can't and probably never will know all the details.

When a question was asked about food he had to turn to Fitzgerald for the answer.

Bissell chimed in with most of the answers on non-food things like the amount of steel and much more that will be shipped to Europe

ECA WON'T BE ABLE to start running in any smooth way until Hoffman can pick a deputy administrator and his other chief assistants

As the program gets under way—and things go wrong—Hoffman will be on the receiving end of criticism

That's one of the hazards of taking a big government job And the way this program is carried out—since it's so huge—will be watched closely by congress

Some men—General George C. Marshall was one of them—get so much respect from congress that they have a pretty mild time with congressmen.

But others get a raking when they go up to the capitol to testify before congressional committees and answer questions.

REVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

RAY MILLAND, above, is the star of the unusual suspense drama, "The Big Clock," which will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater. He is co-starred with Charles Laughton.

"The Big Clock" At Palace Theater

"The Big Clock," an unusual suspense drama and one of the strangest and most savage manhunts ever filmed, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater. Starring Ray Milland and Charles Laughton, with Maureen O'Sullivan, George Macready and Rita Johnson, the picture is not concerned with who committed the crime, but revolves around an innocent man's attempt to escape from the death-trap he is forced to set for himself.

Ray Milland, as George Stroud, editor of a crime magazine, has a genius for tracking down criminals. His boss, played by Charles Laughton, murders his beautiful "protege" and attempts to pin the crime on a man whose shadow he saw leaving the girl's apartment on his arrival. When Stroud is ordered to hunt the man down, he finds himself in the strange position of instituting a search for himself, since it was his shadow his boss saw.

Thursday only, the Harding High school senior class play will be presented at the Palace theater.

The technicolor production "Unconquered," starring Gary Cooper and Paulette Goddard, is being returned for showing here and will be the attraction Friday through Monday.

The picture tells the pre-Revolutionary story of the men and women who braved death for freedom's sake. It is the story of a man who freed a bond slave and found himself in bondage to her, of another who sought to conquer a country and was himself conquered by it.

Joy Theater Shows "Macomber Affair"

"The Macomber Affair," starring Gregory Peck and Joan Bennett with Robert Preston will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Joy theater in Oakland Heights, formerly known as the Oakland theater. Added attractions will include a technicolor short, "Star in the Night," a color cartoon and news of the world.

Tuesday through Thursday the attraction will be "Copacabana" starring the new comedy combination, Groucho Marx, Carmen Miranda and Andy Russell with Steve Cochran, Floria Jean and the Copa girls.

"Sitting Pretty," Comedy, at Ohio

A laugh-packed comedy, "Sitting Pretty," co-starring Robert Young, Maureen O'Hara and Clifton Webb, is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

The film tells the hilarious tale of a sophisticated and mysterious gentleman who snares a job as baby-sitter, with results that almost wreck the marriage of a very-much-in-love young couple and disrupts the life of the entire community.

It deals with a down-to-earth problem with which every family is familiar, that of getting a reliable baby-sitter. When Webb, as Belvedere, comes to the home of Harry and Tacey King, he gently informs the couple that he's a genius, that he hates children and that he will have no trouble at all handling the three offspring.

ROBERT YOUNG, Maureen O'Hara and Clifton Webb, shown above from top to bottom, are co-starred in the comedy production, "Sitting Pretty," which is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

Opening Friday to run for seven days will be "To the Victor," a romantic drama set against post-war Paris and starring Dennis Morgan and the screen newcomer, Viveca Lindfors.

The tale of an ex-GI who remains in France after the war, it unfolds on the streets of Paris and on the sands of immortal Omaha Beach as the picture was filmed largely in France. It is an account of two people who are faced with the decision of whether they should participate in helping to restore a good world against their personal interests.

Story of Africa On Marion Screen

"Goona Goona" and "Africa Speaks," a double feature which involves the primitive in this modern world, will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Marion theater.

The former is concerned with a simple, exciting story of people in love in the Isle of Bali where it is very difficult to marry out of caste. The latter picture was photographed by an explorer who led an expedition into the Dark Continent. Some of the scenes include a lion attacking a native boy, and a thrilling hunt for the killer.

Wednesday and Thursday, in addition to a double screen billing, Tug Swain and his Blue Ridge Entertainers will appear in stage performances. The films will be "The "Flame of New Orleans" starring Marlene Dietrich, and "Trail of the Vigilantes" with Franchot Tone.

"Trail of the Vigilantes" tells of an undercover agent sent to the western frontier by a Kansas City newspaper to hunt down the murderer of a reporter.

"Elephant Boy" starring Sabu in the title role, and "Song of the Sierras" with Jimmy Wakely and Cannonball, will be shown Friday and Saturday.

"Elephant Boy" tells the story of a native lad who lives in the jungles of India, and who loves his pet elephant. It traces his adventures in the dense jungle and tells how he finally becomes a mighty hunter.

Ann Sheridan Stars In State Picture

"The Unfaithful" starring Ann Sheridan and Zachary Scott, and "West of the Divide" with John Wayne will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

Billed as a double feature for Tuesday and Wednesday are "The Millerson Case" and "Bells of San Fernando." The former stars Warner Baxter and Nancy Saunders, and heading the cast in the latter are Donald Woods and Gloria Warren.

"Trail Street" starring Randolph Scott and Anne Jeffreys will be the main attraction of a double feature to be shown Thursday through Saturday. Completing the billing will be "Genius at Work" with Alan Carney and Anne Jeffreys.

Lima Clubs Cub Pitcher Goss For 13 Hits to Win Exhibition 11-8

The Lima Terriers won their initial exhibition start of the season, 11 to 8 at Lincoln park last night, clubbing 13 hits off Cub pitcher Leland Goss—six good for five runs in each the fifth and sixth innings.

Their only other run came in the seventh off a pair of Marion errors and a stolen base.

The Cubs made eight errors, but Lima gave their three pitchers errorless support.

All eight Cub runs were earned, but three of them were walked in in the sixth when Lima pitcher Bob Smith issued three straight bases on balls. He was relieved by Leo Gulvas with one out and the bases full, and Gulvas proceeded to walk the next three batters, driving in three runs.

Score Two in Ninth

The Cubs scored two runs off Gulvas in the ninth off singles by Bill Bolduc, Lou Castrovince, a stolen base, and a double by Vito Tutero.

Cub pitcher Ramon Peet struck out four, walked none, and allowed but one hit in the three innings he worked. He set them down one-two-three in the first, would have done the same in the second but for a Marion error, and faced but five men in the third.

Pitcher Ray Burgemeister looked as good in the last three innings, allowing no hits, but one unearned run in the seventh. He walked none, struck out three.

To left fielder Bill Bolduc goes the honor of belting the first, and only, homer out of Lincoln park in the exhibition series. He opened the fourth with the four-sacker.

Double Steal Works

The Cubs got away with a double steal in the first inning which was good for a run Leadoff batter Bill Crago walked and moved to third when Manager Zeke Bekeza singled. Bekeza broke for second and while Lima attempted to make the play there, Crago hot-footed home. Bekeza arrived safely on second when Lima tried to put out Crago.

Marion third baseman Tom Neeley got two singles in two trips and Bolduc two for five.

Manager Bekeza had a bad night in the field, making two mis-plays at first, and missed a chance to become the hero of the night when he hit into a double play with the bases loaded in the sixth.

The Cubs will play Lima in a return game at Lima this afternoon and will wind up their exhibition schedule tomorrow afternoon at Newark.

Pitchers slated to see action in today's and tomorrow's games are Nick Alivojvodick, Fred Stoltz, Tom Jones, Fred Wensing and Lou Ferraro, all right-handers.

4 Nearby Schools Form Grid League

A new football league, as yet without a name, has been formed this week by four nearby schools, Cardington, Ashley, Centerburg and Sunbury, Coach Dennis Bell of Cardington announced today.

Invitations have been extended to Fredericktown and Johnstown to join the league which will begin operation this fall.

The name of the league will be suggested by the student bodies of the four charter members of the grid loop and selected at a later date.

Elected president for the coming year at the organization meeting in Cardington was Superintendent Patterson of Cardington. Superintendent Blinn of Centerberg was named vice president and Coach Bell secretary-treasurer.

A constitution is to be worked out by a committee of coaches from the schools and is to be presented at the next league meeting May 5.

Trotter Breaks World Record at Santa Anita

By The Associated Press

ARCADIA, Calif. April 24 — Santa Anita's Grand Circuit meeting track was still hot today from yesterday's world-record trotting performance by Rodney.

Rodney, making his first start of the year, trotted a mile and one-sixteenth yesterday in 2:09 2/5 seconds, eclipsing the world mark of 2:11 shared in three horses.

The old mark was held by Dewey McKinney, set at Syracuse, N. Y., in 1926; Harold Wilson, at Toledo, O., in 1914, and Earl's Moody Guy, at Lexington, Ky., in 1942.

Reds Overcome Pirates, 5 to 3

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 24—Cincinnati's Redlegs can come from behind to win and they've demonstrated it three times already this season.

Yesterday they hammered six of eight hits for extra bases to overcome Pittsburgh's three run lead and go on to a 5-3 victory. In the league opener, the Reds came back to beat the Bucs, 4-1.

After absorbing two defeats at St. Louis, the Reds again were three runs behind the Cardinals before generating some late inning scores and a 4-3 success.

Virgil (Red) Stallcup, rookie shortstop, got two for three—both hits being doubles, and scored once.

Johnny Wyrostek got the Reds third homer of the season, a fourth inning clout into the right field bleachers.

The Reds got their scoring drive underway in the sixth. Baumholtz doubled to right center, went to third on a passed ball and came in when Hank Sauer hit a long fly to centerfield.

In the seventh, Bobby Adams walked with one out; Stallcup doubled to leftfield, and then Galan, coming in for Ewell Blackwell, hit a long fly to center. Adams scored and Stallcup moved to third. Baumholtz singled off Lombardi's glove and the Reds were ahead

In the eighth, Grady Hatton singled to right field, and advanced on an error. Bobby Adams smacked a double across the third base bag, scoring Hatton. It was Blackwell's second win.

HARDING DEFEATS CALEDONIA, 15-5

Caledonia surrendered to Harding High school's baseball team by a 10 run margin last night on the home field, 15-5. Seedle on the mound for the Prexies limited the visitors to two hits and one run in the first four innings while the Harding crew combined five runs in the first and six in the second off Fleming to gain a safe advantage. They went ahead to score two in the third and one in the fourth, and another in the sixth off Caledonia relief hurlers Alexander, Ray and Underwood. Ralston poled the only long hit as he connected for a triple: Drake for Caledonia and Seiter for the Presidents each connected for doubles.

Harding's baseballers, now with two warm-up games tucked away thus far this season, will engage their first major foe Monday when they travel to Mansfield to meet the senior high school Tygers in the first of a two-game series. Mansfield will play here in a return game under the lights at Lincoln Park May 3. This game will mark the first time in school history that a Harding baseball team has played in a night game.

To date the Prexies have counted Waldo, 19-3, and last night's 15-5 victory over Caledonia as victims for a two out of two record. Toeing the rubber in Monday's game for the locals will be Johnson, while Seiter again will furnish the second half of the battery.

11 Derby Candidates Get Test Today in $50,000 Wood Memorial

By The United Press

NEW YORK, April 24—With the Kentucky Derby only a week away, 11 candidates for the three-year-old classic are scheduled to start in the $50,000 Wood Memorial at Jamaica today, giving their anxious owners a last chance to decide their status.

The horses who make a good showing in the mile-and-a-sixteenth stakes probably will be shipped immediately to Louisville while those who fail are likely to be kept home for lesser stakes.

Ben F. Whittaker's My Request is considered the horse most likely to succeed in the Wood which already had had six of its winners go on to win the Derby. The son of Requested won the six furlong Experimental in his first start of the year to prove his speed. He then won the longer version of the same stake at a mile-and-a-sixteenth, proving his staying qualities. On the strength of these victories he ruled a 7 to 5 favorite to win the Wood as his sire did in 1942.

His chief opposition is expected from King Ranch's Better Self, winner of the Paumonok handicap at six furlongs against older horses. But Better Self was beaten by W. L. Brann's Escadru last Monday and his stock fell. He gets another chance to prove he is more than a sprinter while Greentree Stable's Kilroy, another strong contender, gets a chance to prove his class.

Kilroy was regarded as a second stringer by Greentree earlier in the year with its main hopes pinned on Star Bout. But Star Bout failed to live up to expectations while Kilroy won both his starts this year. He hasn't raced against top class horses, however, and gets his first chance to prove himself a cut above the ordinary in the Wood

William G. Helis' Salmagundi, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, is another who failed in New York. He was last in the longer experimental and unless he improves, will not make the trip to the blue grass.

The others weren't conceded much of a chance. C. V. Whitney's Mount Marcy and A. J. Sackett's Gasparilla were winners at the meeting but appear to be above their class in the Wood while E. E. Hart's Big Dial, J. J. Amiel's Isigny, Hal Price Headley's Pennon, Joe W. Brown's Riverlane and A. G. Vanderbilt's Loser Weeper haven't been able to threaten the top three horses so far this year.

He'll Study Grid Tactics At Six Clinics

Ex-St. Mary coach Gene Fetter, who will take up freshman coaching duties at Ohio Northern in the fall, has more clinic visits on his summer schedule than a hypochondriac brooding over a "You May Be Next" ad.

Only the clinics he'll attend won't be concerned with erratic pulses, high blood pressure, and like misfortunes, but will go more on how to give them the bird with the single wing, and how to be offensive with the Michigan T.

They're football clinics—six of them in all.

He and the Ohio Northern athletic director, Clyde A. Lamb, and head football coach, Larry Archer, already have attended their first clinic of the year—that at Purdue last weekend where they heard Henry Frnka of Tulane university talk on the single-wing offense, and Jeff Cravath of U.S.C. and Stu Holcomb of Purdue on the T-offense.

At the end of this month Fetter and assistant St. Mary coaches Forest Sharrock and Martin Lewis will attend Paul Brown's clinic at Cleveland. Harding coaches Pete Howison, Howard Thomas, George Keel and Kenny Somerlot will also attend that football session.

Then on May 7 and 8, Fetter will go to the Ohio State university grid clinic where Wes Fesler and Notre Dame's Frank Leahy will expound on the gridiron sport.

He'll go to Morgantown, W. Va., June 2-5 for the University of West Virginia's school with professor "Dud" DeGroot in charge.

He'll listen to a whole gridiron faculty at Canton August 9-14 when Don Faurot, Bobby Dodds, Bob Higgins, Herman Hickman, Paul Brown, Jim Aiken, Jack Blott, Benny Oosterbaan, Sid Gillman, and Art Valpey teach at the Ohio High School Football Coaching school.

From August 16 to 20, he'll attend the Bethany Coaching school at Bethany, W. Va., where Faurot of Missouri and Harold D. Drey of Alabama will hold forth.

Sisler-La Pointe Trade Goo Deal for Both Phillies, Car

Tribe on Top, Beats Detroit

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 24—It's a long time between now and October, but the Cleveland Indians were perched atop the American league standings today—the only undefeated team in either circuit.

The Tribe moved into the top spot with a brilliant display of power and pitching that humbled the Detroit Tigers 8 to 2 yesterday and gave a crowd of 45,233 little to cheer about in Detroit's home opener.

The 15-hit attack was spearheaded by four home runs, two by Ken Keltner and one apiece by Larry Doby and Bob Lemon. Lemon also set the Bengals down with six hits.

Doby, the fleet young Negro who had a miserable day in the Indians' opener last Tuesday, was fully relaxed and confident yesterday. He rapped three hits, including the homer.

Manager Lou Boudreau matched Doby's three hits with a double and two singles. Thurman Tucker was the only Indian to go hitless, but he drew a pair of walks.

Keltner's first two home runs of the young season were powerful pokes that reached the bleacher seats in left. Ken drove across four runs altogether.

All the heavy pounding was at the expense of a fellow who last year was the Tigers' "winningest" pitcher—Freddie Hutchinson. The ace right-hander hurled only five and two-thirds innings, allowing six runs and nine hits, including all four homers

WEATHERLY HOMERS INDIANAPOLIS WIN

By International News Service

Milwaukee climbed into a third place tie with Kansas City by blanketing Louisville, 3 to 0, while the Blues were losing to Toledo, 7 to 4

Al Epperly tossed a six-hitter in shutting out Louisville.

Bob Raney staggered to his second victory for Toledo although tabbed for nine hits by Kansas City. Hank Bauer homered for Kansas City.

Minneapolis, outhit 15 to 8, defeated Columbus, 8 to 5, with a three-run rally at the expense of reliefer Steve Gerkin Four homeruns were hit by Joe Lafata and 'Bama Ray of the Millers and Bill Costa and Tom Galviano for Columbus

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

SIR STAFFORD CRIPPS, born April 24, 1889 in London, has one of the world's toughest jobs as chancellor of the exchequer of the United Kingdom, which is now faced with the greatest economic crisis of its history.

Sir Stafford was born of aristocracy, but cast his lot with the Labor party and rose to high rank in it, though he once was ousted from membership because he fought Chamberlain's appeasement policy in 1939.

In the past he has been British ambassador to Moscow, lord privy seal and minister of aircraft production.

Suburb Would Tax Tenants, for Schools

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 23 — The school board in suburban Crafton has a new idea for a tax—a five per cent levy on all rents.

The tax, believed to be the first such proposed in the nation, was offered yesterday with final action to be taken by the school board on May 17.

Walter E. Coborn, board secretary, said he thought the proposed tax — to be levied against all leases "written, oral or implied" —would be a fair way to get all tenants to support the school district. He estimated the tax would yield from $20,000 to $24,000 a year.

The levy would be enforced under a law enacted by the state legislature at its last session, permitting all municipalities and school districts—except Philadelphia—to tax virtually anything not taxed by the commonwealth.

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels cause almost 600,000 deaths every year in the United States.
